Carrier Hosts Healthy Buildings Webinar to Share Actionable Insights on Creating Safer, Healthier Hotels to Welcome Back Guests with Confidence

CHARLOTTE, N.C., Nov. 03, 2021 – Carrier invites hospitality professionals, including owners, operators, managers and engineers, to a global webinar focused on delivering the latest insights in creating safer, healthier hotels. Industry professionals can register for the November 17, 11 a.m. ET webinar here. Carrier is part of Carrier Global Corporation (NYSE: CARR), the leading global provider of healthy, safe, sustainable and intelligent building and cold chain solutions.

The hour-long webinar will present the latest, scientific research on delivering a healthy hotel and actionable insights to address the current challenges faced by hotels — from severe labor shortages and low guest occupancy to increased demands from guests for safe and healthy stays. A live question and answer session will be offered.

Dr. Joseph Allen, Director of the Healthy Buildings Program at the Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health, will present research connecting human cognitive and performance benefits to indoor air quality (IAQ), which can result in a better night's sleep and greater satisfaction for guests. He will also provide recommendations for building infrastructure improvements for a healthier indoor environment supported by the latest research studies since the start of the pandemic.

Carrier speakers will include Greg Alcorn, Vice President, Healthy Buildings, and Rusty Steele, Director, North America Enterprise Account Leader, Carrier Building Solutions Group. The Carrier presentation will focus on sharing solutions that increase guest confidence and help hotels thrive with optimized operations and increased brand growth.

If you are interested in the session but unable to join the live presentation and Q&A, a link to the recording will be available to those who register for the event. Click here to register.
