

In 2025, the HVAC industry will be transitioning to new R-454B and R-32 refrigerants. Because these new refrigerants have a mildly flammable characteristic, install and service technicians will need to transition to sparkproof tools (recovery machines, vacuum pumps, etc) for a safe working environment.

Click or scan the QR code for a background on the refrigerant changes along with details on tools that are compatible with both the new (R-454B & R-32) and existing (R-410A) refrigerants.

The new refrigerants are right around the corner; make certain any tool purchase is going to be compatible!
