Read and become familiar with the user guide and all other literature supplied with each alarm in your home.

⚠ WARNING! If the power harness currently wired into the structure does not match one of the three harnesses in Figure 1, this adapter will not work, and the new wiring harness shipped with your Kidde model will need to be re-wired in place.

This adapter can be used to quickly allow replacement of these Kidde legacy models with new Kidde models which use the new style connector without having to re-wire or replace the existing legacy Kidde models wire harness :

⚠ WARNING: Turn off AC power before attempting to connect wire harnesses or adapters.

This smoke alarm adapter allows the installation of new Kidde alarms to existing "legacy" Kidde wiring harnesses. When using this adapter, the power harness supplied with your new Kidde alarm is not used. Connect the 20-9003 adapter to the legacy (existing) Kidde wiring harness. To install the adapter, push the large end of the adapter into the existing wired Kidde harness and confirm it snaps into position. Give a small tug to make sure the adapter is snapped into place. Then insert the opposite end of the adapter into the back of the new unit.

After installation, turn on AC power and be sure that the AC power indicator is operating and test all your alarms following the instructions supplied by the alarm manufacturer for your specific alarm model. If the alarms are interconnected push the test button on each alarm and verify that all the interconnected alarms sound when any alarm is activated. The interconnect system should not exceed the NFPA interconnect limit of 12 smoke alarms.
